A Plan for Peace

A summary framework proposal of Civil Society

- 1) Not one side nor the other is asked to accept any blame. What is asked is that the sides talk. Simple large-stroke solutions can be reached in an instant. Minor disagreements can be set aside for later discussion. A timetable can be created. A dispute resolution mechanism can also be pre-ordained.
- 2) The past is the past. It has no place in the present. With forward thinking it is easily seen that all sides can gain significant benefits through cooperation.
- 3) Proposed Peace Plan for the Middle East from Civil Society Women's Group
- 4) Second sober thought should yield a stand down.

- 5) Three main components are the basis for immediate dispute resolution. The parties must agree:

i> All sanctions against Iran must be removed immediately. Let all parties, all populations benefit from their own legitimate achievements.

ii> The US military and its claimed coalition must remove all military forces from the Republic of Iraq. That time has come when the Republic of Iraq must solve its own problems and benefit from its own achievements in the context of its own culture and its own will.

iii> The Islamic Republic of Iran will return to the JCPOA and will stand down its attacks against any foreign power and cancel its revenge planning.

- 6) Considering that The United States of America military forces have already prepared to leave Iraq.
- 7) The United States has been considering the removal of military assets from Iraq and clearly has a plan for doing so as indicated in a letter. The American President has repeatedly stated this action as a goal. That goal should be achieved with immediate and negotiated minimally non-disruptive effect for the parties.

- 8) US Brigadier General William Seely saying to Abdul Amir, Director Combined Joint Operations Baghdad of the Iraqi Defence Department, "in deference to the sovereignty of the Republic of Iraq, and as requested by the Iraqi Parliament and the Prime Minister, we will be repositioning forces over the course of the coming days and weeks to prepare for onward movement"
- 9) "We respect your sovereign decision to order our departure," the letter continues.
- 10) Hence, The United States should immediately execute the plan which is also consistent with an Iraqi Parliament and Prime Ministerial wish.
- 11) Bearing in mind the RINJ Coalition, "Voices for Peace", a Civil Society bid for global peace and nuclear disarmament. The parties should agree to join forces and promote calm and responsible global nuclear disarmament.
- 12) The parties should note that Iraq needs global humanitarian support and guidance not armaments. War reparations from the global community must rebuild the destroyed cities that have been bombed to rubble creating an enormous internally displacement of children and their families. A humanitarian disaster has begun to unfold to the eyes of the world in Iraq.
- 13) Humanitarian NGOs Join Voices Against Extra Judicial Killings (EJK) and other Crimes Against Humanity
- 14) Across the world civil society has loudly protested the emerging global proclivity of wrong-minded leaders toward extra judicial killing of people that leaders do not like.

- 15) Because of their de facto privileged position on the world stage, the United States of America and the Islamic Republic of Iran have a greater than normal responsibility to uphold international law and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. That may or may not seem fair. It is no less true however, that is a reasonable expectation of humanity.
- 16) Therefore her Excellency Michelle Bachelet Jeria, the United Nations Human Rights High Commissioner is respectfully asked to consider investigation of the matter of the sudden deaths of the persons at 33°15'29"N 44°15'22"E (Baghdad, Iraq) on or about 3 January 2020 1 a.m. (local UTC+3).
- 17) All sides must agree that allowing an impartial third party take carriage of this file is a suitable way ahead. The parties can file acceptances or grievance dialogues with the neutral third party, her Excellency Michelle Bachelet Jeria, the United Nations Human Rights High Commissioner, as they arise, but must also agree that between the parties there shall be no further dialogue on the filed matter and no repetition of this style of conduct.
- 18) Please accept this framework for peace as a thoughtful guideline representing the submitted thoughts and will of a large cross section of global Civil Society. May peace be with all mankind so that together we may solve the human development and Earth-safety challenges we face as humanity.
